appearing I'm trying to create a line plot with a line of default values that will be updated by another line plot during runtime, however the x-axis labels do not appear. I've taken a few of my own scripts, and tried editing various properties but still had no success. All the other posts I found about this problem were talking about how to add the labels on top of the other plot, however I'd like the default y-axis titles to appear in between the two plots. I would also like to add that I am trying to set this as a new feature on my current version of plotly, so using an external 3rd party module is not ideal. Plot Template

import plotly.offline as p import plotly.graph_objs as go import dash import dash.dependencies as d import dash_core_components as dcc import dash_html_components

as html app =
dash.Dash(__name__)
app.layout = html.Div([
html.Div([ html.H1('Plot Template'), html.Div([ html.Div([ html.H2('Please set up your plot below. This will be where your data will go'),

The idea is to display data from an URL into a NSTableView, but I'm having problems with the binding. The view displays the data in the table alright, but doesn't receive any data from the NSArrayController after program start. Since the view is only created once and I have no idea how to directly use the array controller for the table view I assumed binding the view to the array controller wouldn't be the correct solution. If someone could explain how `NSView` and `NSArrayController` can be linked this would be great! Many thanks in advance! A: Add the following to your.h file: `IBOutlet NSArrayController *arrayController;` `NSDictionary *binding;` In the implementation of your class file: `@interface YourClass:`

NSObject { ... } ...
@synthesize arrayController;
@synthesize binding;
Implement the NSTableView
delegate in your.h file: @interface YourClass:
NSObject Implement this
