You can also use the Eraser tool to erase any pixels that you do not want in an image. You can erase text, paths, shapes, or simply clean up the mess of an accidental brush stroke. You can erase in several ways: With the Eraser tool, you can drag the button toward any type of object to erase it. You can also press the Alt key (Windows) or Option key (Mac) while dragging the Eraser tool to remove an object. The Alt key acts as a substitute for the Eraser tool. If pressed, the Eraser will create a new instance of a pixel object type. Finally, you can press Ctrl+E. This shortcut erases the object all in one step.

Troubleshooting

You can generally run into problems when starting up Photoshop. If that happens, this list of common problems and their solutions may help.

Windows Mac

It looks like Photoshop is not responding. Close or hide all other programs on your computer. Select Photoshop from the task bar at the top of the screen. Click the "X" in the upper-right corner. This will end the program. Attempt to start Photoshop again. If that doesn't work, restart your computer.

It started and now it's frozen. Wait a few minutes. If this happens often, you may need to reinstall Photoshop.

Can't get Photoshop to focus. Click the "X" in the upper-right corner. This will end the program. Double-click a window. The window will now focus. It's partially zoomed in. Click the Zoom to Selection tool (Z). This will undo the last zoom. If this happens, an image is in use. Click the Zoom to Selection tool (Z). This will reset the zoom. If this happens, your graphics card is outdated. Open your computer's Control Panel. Locate the Hardware & Power section. Click "Device Manager" under the 'Display Adapters' category. This will open a window called "Device Manager". Double-click on the graphic card that is listed under "Display adapters." This will open a window called the "Device Manager". Click the device that's listed under "Display adapters." Click the yellow ex

(CNN) -- Time to get back into the kitchen. The Food Network is bringing back "The Best Thing I Ever Ate," a daytime cooking show that first aired in 1990, the network said. The half-hour show features guest chefs who make one recipe and pit it against another in a "Sicilian Strangulation" competition. The contestants will compete on the show from January 14 to 20, 2014, according to the network. "I'd go there and on the first day I'd be like, 'Can I cook?' and they'd say, 'No, you're going to be the judge,'" James Beard-winning chef Giada De Laurentiis said in a video announcing the show. "I'd be like, 'Oh, OK.' I'd fall in love with 'The Best Thing I Ever Ate.' It's so hard. It's really hard to cook. It's all about timing and love. These things are so hard." The show will be taped in the New York metropolitan area, according to the network. The show, which will air Saturdays and Sundays, is hosted by editor-at-large Bobby Flay. "The Best Thing I Ever Ate" debuted in 1990 and has been a series hit for the network ever since, according to the show's website. The news was first reported by the Washington Post.
